Time for uniqueness

The Rhine valley between Bingen and Rudesheim in the south and Koblenz in the north rightly enjoys its status as a Unesco World Heritage site, as its uniqueness is down to its varied natural landscape which is inextricably linked to its rich cultural heritage.

In vino veritas – as we all know, wine contains truth and a lot of sophistication and aromas if it comes from the Boppard Hamm wine-growing estate. Some of the best wines from the Middle Rhine wine region are cultivated here and are proof of just how delectable Boppard is to its residents and guests.

Time for romance

For more than 200 years people have been travelling to Boppard from near and far in order to experience with all their senses the unique natural landscape of the river valley. Wild and adventurous, the Rhine once cast a spell on travellers. Its beauty is still with us, but nowadays a trip on the many white boats is much more relaxed.

For sword and crown. Here the Rhine was fought over, defended, pillaged and duty was paid. Even today the castles, palaces and citadels that number over forty bear testimony to the significance of the course of the river as a transport route and bottleneck for goods and valuables that were much admired and coveted by lords living on steep pinnacles.

Boppard's history is akin to a walk through 200 years of settlement and cultural history. The former Roman fort wall was incorporated in the medieval city wall and large parts of it have been well preserved to the present day. Once inside the former fortress you can have a wonderful time looking for traces of the Roman walls.

Free as a bird – such feelings are easily aroused on the heights overlooking the Rhine Valley. After all, wonderful hiking routes such as the Rhine Castle Way or the Rheinsteig trail go directly past Boppard and take you along trails such as the Middle Rhine climbing trail to airy locations between heaven and earth.

Time for action

The Rhine determines the route. Even those who are not sufficiently equipped with maps will have no difficulty navigating the riverbank with their bikes. The Rhine cycle route goes along both sides of the river and offers cycling pleasure for cyclists of all levels of fitness. The mountain bike routes around Boppard are more demanding.

Time for relaxation

The everlasting waves of the Rhine have provided rest and relaxation to many who have seen them. The green colours of the forests and heights are also true sources of strength. However, Boppard also offers tender loving care for body, mind and soul.

Churches, monasteries and castles

Listen to art history being explained by our academically trained tour guide. Find out more about the unique interior of the Carmelite Church, gain an insight into the architectural history of the St. Severus Church; the Protestant Christus Church is also included in the itinerary. The numerous monasteries are a testament to the significance of the town of Boppard in the early modern period. And what would delving into history be without the Elector's castle and the Roman fort? Unlike a traditional city tour, the emphasis here is on individual buildings that are discussed in great detail and with dramatic effect and posited in an art history context.
